She is an award-winning speaker and professional member of the National Speaking Association and has presented to 70 audiences in the last two years. She served in the volunteer management and national service field for 10 years. Sharon also serves as a Part-Time Instructor for ASU Lodestar Center for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Innovation.

Failing Forward: The Courage to Keep Showing Up

Sharon had a huge opportunity to get paid to speak at a conference in her field. After several mistakes and embarrassing missteps she almost ended up owing money to the conference instead of making money. These mistakes and more have been key to Sharon's success in becoming a professional speaker, trainer, and podcaster. In this humorous and engaging keynote, she will remind you of the importance of failure to your ultimate success. Her speech will inspire you to fail forward and keep showing up until you exceed your expectations.
